

QEH Ambulatory Care Centre

60 Riverside Drive
Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island

The QEH Ambulatory Care Centre project involved a major building addition, and renovation, to facilitate the relocation and upgrade of several key hospital departments. The $26,000,000 project included an 85,000 square foot addition located at the existing main entry of the hospital.

The addition provides a broad range of family-centered health services to patients of all ages through schedule appointments. Services include: cardio-respiratory care, patient preparation/recovery services, surgical procedures, and various clinics such as orthopedic, pain management, plastics, and urology. In addition to the ambulatory care centre, the addition also included an impressive new lobby for Prince Edward Island's largest hospital.
